

Seeking Student Volunteers for NGO CSR Proposal

I am looking for 1-2 student volunteers to help an NGO create a funding proposal for corporate social responsibility (CSR) initiatives. This is an excellent opportunity to gain real-world experience in grant writing and make a difference through impactful social projects.

Our NGO (RAJ Bhanwar Welfare Trust) has uplifted thousands of rural lives through initiatives in education, healthcare, women's empowerment and more. However, we have the vision and proven models to benefit many more. That's why we need to access Corporate Social Responsibility funds from companies - and that's where you come in! We need assistance to articulate these initiatives and their outcomes into a compelling proposal for CSR funds from corporate donors.

As a student volunteer, your role would involve:

1. Understanding the NGO's vision, mission and current projects. You will learn first-hand how high-impact NGOs operate sustainably.
2. Conduct research on CSR funding norms, processes and potential corporate partners. You will learn about CSR working at companies.
3. Craft comprehensive budgets, project descriptions, and impact analysis for integrating technology. Learn to build an impact analysis model.
4. Document our field-tested community programs focused on literacy, nutrition, skills training and income generation.
5. Finally design and write a compelling funding proposal. You will learn how to write compelling proposal.

Grab this unique chance to get a glimpse of how NGOs roll, sharpen your skills, and make a real difference in meaningful development work. You can use your talents to help communities, get a taste of the real-world issues, and improve your research, financial modeling, writing, and communication skills. Plus, you'll gain some real-life experience in writing grant proposals.

No prior experience needed - just good research, writing and communication abilities. Ability to commit 5-10 hours per week for one month is required. You will receive a small stipend, personalized certificate and recommendation letter validating your contributions.

If you are a passionate student who believes that positive change matters beyond grades, we would love to have you on board! Write in to us at keviv9@gmail.com with your interest and background. Let's drive transformation together!
